BETHANIAN

COLLEGE, — BETHANY, WEST VIRGINIA

FORE

A stylized, high-contrast illustration in black, white, and gray. It depicts a hand holding a tall, narrow glass. Inside the glass, a small, dark figure of a person is visible, appearing to be inside the liquid or trapped within the glass itself. The background is a solid dark gray, and the overall style is graphic and minimalist.

Here is the Bethanian. We hope it pleases you. But whether it does or does not, the Editor wishes to thank the student body for the privilege of heading the staff. We have learned a great many things and tried out several theories (most of them bad) but all in all, we have enjoyed ourselves.

The continued rise in commodity prices and the limited budget we have had, has affected the quantity and quality of the book. There are many places where economy has forced us to limit ourselves and, in some instances, to even eliminate parts that we still think it would have been desirable to include. For this reason we have attempted to deal in generalities, having been forced to abandon specifics.

We have tried to give you a pictorial memory book of Bethany. Again, we hope you like it.

DEDICATION

This year we dedicate the yearbook to our faculty, an earnest, competent body, who merit our respect and admiration for the manner in which they direct our education, so that we may enjoy more fully a "good" life.

On the following pages we have listed our faculty's names and degrees. If we, at times, become overproud of our own achievements in formal education, let us consider what these men and women have accomplished to fit themselves for their positions.

If we would achieve, we too must work.

DR. CRAMBLET

Greetings:

I am glad to have an opportunity to bring greetings and congratulations to the students and friends of Bethany through the pages of the Bethanian.

This year marked the passing of Mark Mordecai Cochran, a graduate of the college in the class of 1875 and a member of the Board of Trustees of the college for fifty-three years. Every student and friend of Bethany is personally indebted to M. M. Cochran for his interest in and support of the life and program of our Alma Mater.

Many forward steps have been undertaken at the college during this period. The academic life of the institution has been strengthened. The spirit of cooperation on the part of the students, faculty and friends in the life of Bethany has been a source of satisfaction to everyone.

Plans are now being made looking to the Centennial of the college in 1940. The Centennial class is now enrolled at Bethany. We are glad to invite all friends of the college to participate in our plans as we prepare for the celebration that will mark the beginning of the second century of Bethany's service.

"Oh, will old Bethany be the same,
When one hundred years have rolled?"

As has been our policy in former years, we haven't much to say.

None of us really believe we will find a gold mine, get oil in the back yard or otherwise make a million. If we did, we feel sure everyone would be watching one another.

No, what we are taking from Bethany is a treasured collection of memories of hard work, good fun and a grand time.

More important, we believe that we have acquired a sense of responsibility; that because of our having spent four years in college we will be better citizens. We believe that whatever we can get from this life we can enjoy a little more fully and experience a little more deeply than had we not attended the "College on the Hill."

We wish to express to the personnel of the college our appreciation of their kindness and helpfulness to us, and to the administration our thanks for the facilities they provided for us.

To the classes that follow us, we leave the hope that when we return next year, ten years or twenty-five years hence, we shall find that body of traditions which serves to distinguish Bethany still marching toward the second hundred years.

JUNIOR HISTORY

It was in September '34, that we one hundred forty-one took up our abode in that quiet little town and determined to make ourselves felt in the "College on the Hill." That was three long years ago, hardly seems possible.

Freshman Week and our early endeavors are still fresh in our minds. Being the largest class in the history of the college, to that time, we contributed a proportional amount to the advancement of the college, athletically, socially and most important of all, scholastically. After struggling through a turbulent Sophomore term interspersed with floods and frigid weather, we found ourselves beset by the acid test—Sophomore Comprehensives. But the results of two straight days of toil and trouble proved to the Administration that we were worthy of being called Juniors.

Now, after having upheld the heritage of our predecessors, we pass it on in no light manner to the Junior Class of 1938.

JUNIORS

SOPHOMORE HISTORY

Eighty-four of the original 118 members of our class returned to Bethany in September, 1936, proudly bearing the title, "Sophomore." Promptly claiming the seats on the left side of chapel, we glanced at the rows of new faces on our right and wondered if it were possible that only a year ago we were entering the very same section for the first time.

Rushing time soon rolled around, and we began to feel allied to the upperclassmen in looking over freshmen material. Who would have guessed last year that we were the objects of so much scrutiny?

At a meeting of the class early in the fall we decided to give the "frosh" a taste of the indignities we had suffered the year before. Freshman Alley had been polished up a bit, but it still served the purpose of the "straight and narrow" for the wearers of the green dinks.

As the year progressed, the sophomores found their places in the various activities on the campus, and we began to feel grown-up and responsible. Then came the pin rush . . . yes, we certainly were assuming responsibilities.

The class took charge of the Fall Homecoming Dance as it had done the year before, and the Freshman - Sophomore dance was another high light of the social calendar.

When spring came and the campus began to take the appearance of a "country club" we were called in for a few days to take Sophomore Comprehensives. (Long hours . . . waiting to get out.)

And now that half our time in college is spent, we feel it has been pleasant and profitable, and we are looking forward to two more years of work and friendship at Bethany.

FOOTBALL

This year Bethany resumed relations with Washington and Jefferson after a lapse of five years. The Green wave lost, 20-7, Baldwin scoring and Hauner converting.

At Westminster, Bethany won 13-6, the game being pulled out of the fire by a pass from Slack to Klevins late in the last period.

In the opening quarter with Kenyon, Bethany scored a touchdown which won the game. The Ohioans were a powerful team, however, and the Green and White was hard pressed to keep their lead. Score 6-0. After many years, Bethany took Thiel 26-0. This victory was sweeter for having been delayed so long.

The Geneva game found the Bisons riding the crest of the wave. The Green outgained Geneva in every department except passing, but we lost 20-0.

Hiram was the fall home-coming attraction and, fresh from the defeat at Geneva, downed the Hiram Terriers 32-0. The feature of the game was Captain Hanna's 90 yard run.

Morris Harvey was the last home game, and the Bison team left us with enough touchdowns for the winter. The final score, 49-0.

Fairmont was the last in line of the Green Wave victims. We bid farewell here to our Seniors Hanna, Baldwin and Blistan. Score 19-0.

BASKETBALL

The Bethany floor squad opened their season with Holbrook, overwhelming them 71-40, but dropped the next one to the flashy W. & J. team 41-52. Geneva then invaded Bethany, going home with a 35-67 win. But these losses were overshadowed by a surprise win over the Towering Titans of Westminster to the tune of 44-34.

Continuing this winning streak, Fairmont fell 48-46. Then an ancient rival, Wesleyan, was beaten in a heated contest which ran into two overtime periods. The score 55-52, (but Kirk forfeited the game, remember?).

We next journeyed to Westminster and had an off night—lost 11-46. Another thriller on February 10th. We took Salem in a Frank Merriwell finish 40-39. Nice going, boys! It seems as though W. & J. has the bug on us, 37-51. Bethany at Geneva, playing before a capacity crowd, lost the next one in the dying minutes of the game, 42-44.

On a trip down state, we lost three in a row, Fairmont, 47-52; Salem, 42-52; and Wesleyan, 41-59. Still continuing our losing streak, the strong Glenville quintet won at Bethany 35-48. Playing Glenville a return game, we again lost 45-68.

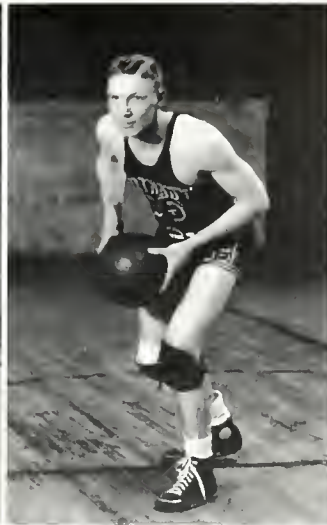

To summarize the season, Won 5, lost 10. Tough going, but prospects for next year are very good with eight veterans returning.

MINOR SPORTS

Under the direction of Professor Erskine (upper right hand corner), Bethany places a tennis team in inter-collegiate competition each year. While the Bethanian goes to press too early to record their results, we have every hope they will turn in fine results.

Squad, Cohn, Erskine and Erskine.

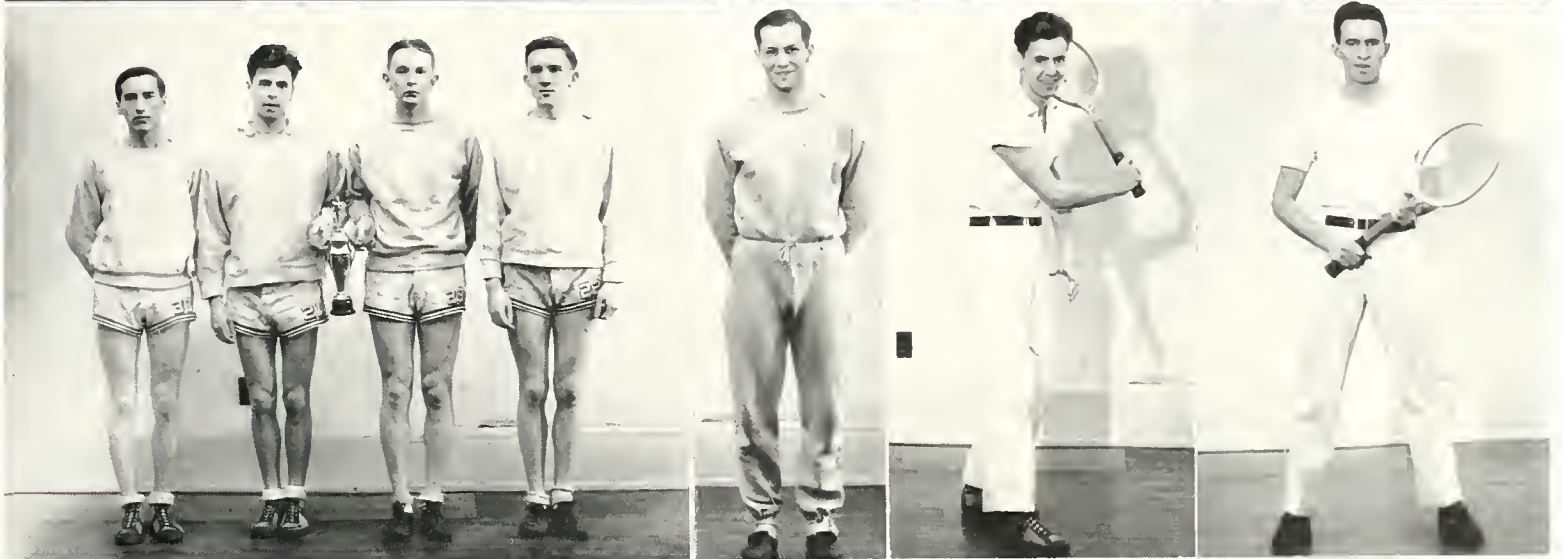

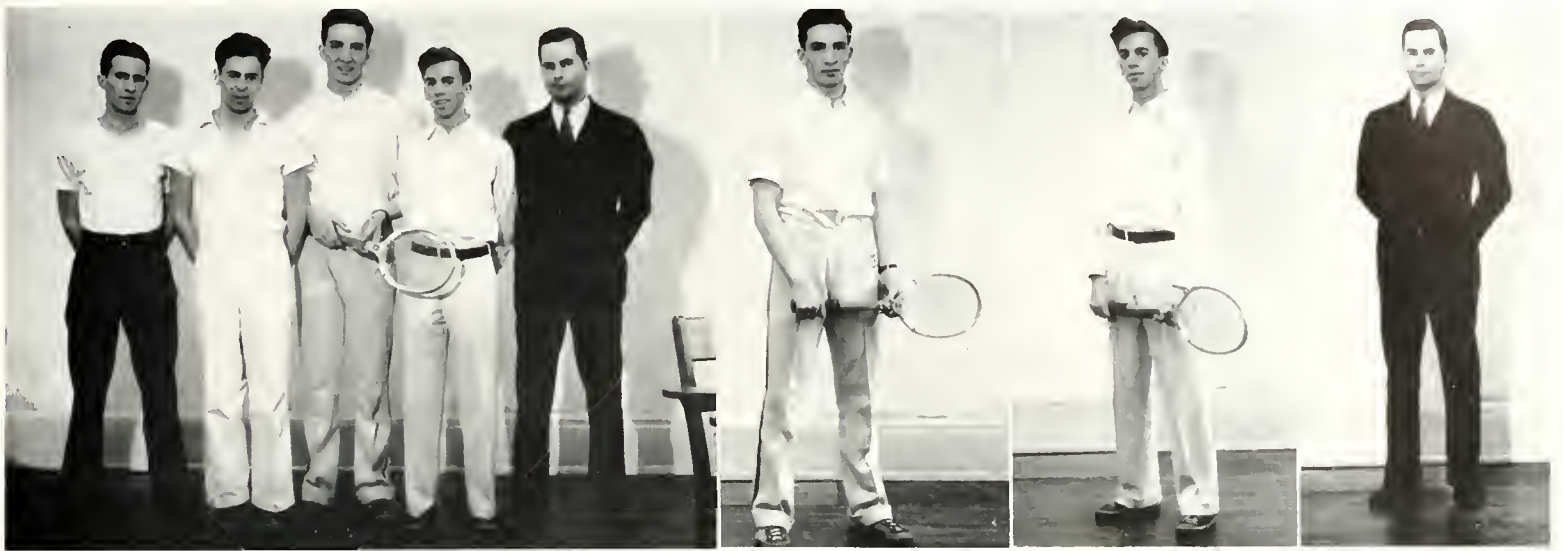

This year the cross country team won the National A. A. U. Jr. cross country championship, which was run at Weirton, W. Va. Members of the squad are: Kuti, McIlroy, McCann, Fultz, Horner.

In track and field events, Bethany is rapidly building up a department that will give formidable competition to its opponents.

It is impossible at this time to give scores, and we do not like to prophesy, but if past years can give us an indication, Bethany should, this year, turn out a team that can take its place with those that have gone before.

Blistan, Whitehead, Everhart, Rogers, McCann, Porter, Croushore.

For detail work it is hard to find anything that will furnish more than a yearbook. This year's staff has had a valuable training in this respect—more than most of us liked. For the Bethanian attempts to condense many of the daily happenings and familiar things into a new form, and in such a way that the essentials are not lost.

We are glad and sorry that our task is done. We have tried to present you with the essential associations of your daily life here at Bethany. Many things have for various reasons been omitted, but your friends and some of the scenes you love are here. May you get great pleasure from the memories they invoke.

The date, March fifteenth, 1883, may not be significant to a great number of people, but to the Staff of the Collegian it stands as the birth date of our school paper under its present name. For over a half century it has been recording the happenings on the banks of the old Buffalo—always an accurate up-to-date record of all college events.

The Collegian, an uncensored publication, serves as a mouthpiece of student opinion. The editorials express an appreciation of Bethany and her ideals and purposes. The paper strives to keep aflame those ideals and to bring constructive criticism to the eyes of the readers.

This half-century of the life of our publication has seen immense changes, both in the college itself and in the outside world. It is the desire of the Collegian to keep up with these ever changing conditions. Along with the rapid advancement of Bethany, we expect an equally rapid advancement of our Collegian.

Joseph Gluck

COLLEGE ORCHESTRA . . .

A willing and able musical organization of the college is the Bethany College Orchestra. Directed by Professor Rush Carter, the Orchestra presented chapel programs and concerts, and have proved an invaluable aid to various dramatic productions.
